At New Age Industrial, we know what the Food Industry is all about — SERVICE. We know that when people expect excellent service from you, and your facility, you expect that from your suppliers, as well. That is why we strive to design, develop and deliver the best, most durable and efficient products to you...Our customer. From every aspect of your food service equipment needs, we have the products you need and the quality you want.

Galvanized or plated steel products could be used in food service applications, however they will rust and need to be replaced over time. Plus, stainless steel is around 3 times more expensive than aluminum. Plastic items tend to be bulky with larger (harder) surfaces to clean compared to a smooth (easier) aluminum surface.
